Each year, 25 or more mothers and their children participate in the program. Each family has suffered the ravages of homelessness and is in need of basic necessities. In the summer of 2015, Catholic Charities purchased a small apartment complex adjacent to the current program site. The building will increase the capacity from 17 to 22 individual apartments, and provide a classroom for education for the mothers. |

Patty moved into Our Mother's House and while living there for two years she received her degree from cosmetology school and obtained a job in a local salon. Patty is now established as a hair stylist, and came back to Our Mother's House to offer free haircuts to the mothers currently in residence. Once settled, the family and their dedicated case manager began to develop a housing plan and long term goals toward self-sustainability. The Furia family received a second chance at achieving housing stability with financial assistance from Catholic Charities. Not only did the family receive assistance from their master case manager in locating housing and advocating with the landlords on their behalf, the family also receive financial assistance that covered first, last and security rental deposits and a utility deposit. Program Success Examples

Bryan, who suffers from heart disease, lost his housing. While Bryan's doctor told him he should not work, the doctor also would not recommend him for disability. Despite his medical records describing his heart disease, Social Security declined his request for disability twice. Working closely with his Bethesda House of Catholic Charities case manager, Bryan got a job at Publix. Bethesda House purchased a bike so he could commute to work. Through a donation designated to help with housing, Bethesda House could help Bryan with a security deposit and he is now stably housed.

Michael, an attorney, suffered tragic events in his life. Michael came to Bethesda House of Catholic Charities homeless with no family and nowhere to go. While staying at the Salvation Army, he came to Bethesda House daily to look for employment. During this time, Bethesda House was his respite. When Michael first arrived at the center, he was quiet and kept to himself. Over time he relaxed and interacted easily with clients and volunteers. Michael also volunteered at Bethesda House by helping with landscaping and household chores. He is now gainfully employed as a paralegal and is stably housed. Bethesda House was able to provide financial assistance for his apartment.
